

A tribute to
Ar. Ashok Dhawan

Ar. Ashok Dhawan was well known in the architectural community as a passionate being who wove traditional materials, techniques and details into outstanding modern forms. His association with Vatika as a professional, dates back to 1980's, when Vatika farmlands and resort at Sohna was inceptioned.

Through this long association – many of us at Vatika – promoters, admins, sales representatives, operations team, architects and engineering professionals have had the privilege of interacting with him on various projects. He had the skill of a master craftsman blended with the enthusiasm of a young student, which lent each discussion with him to become an educative session in itself. His passionate endeavor for detailing and innovation while creating elegant yet sensitive designs left us in awe every time. His creations reflect the thoughtfulness towards the user and the function it is to serve. These are evident in each building that he designed.

“Dhawan Sir” as he was fondly referred to within Vatika has left his mark with all of us and shall be greatly missed as a mentor and teacher.
